

Assistance for Konec customers experiencing domestic, family or sexual violence

This policy is formed in accordance with Telecommunications (Domestic, Family and Sexual Violence Consumer Protections) Industry Standard 2025 and is valid from 1st July 2025 until 31st March 2026.

1 Domestic and family violence

Domestic and family violence refers to behaviours of an individual that are designed to create a dependency or to isolate, monitor, dominate, or control another individual. It can occur in any personal relationship including between intimate partners, parents and children, immediate and extended family groups, communal and extended kinship connections, and in carer and guardianship arrangements.

The behaviours can include:

- Life threatening communications
- > Unwelcome communications,
- > Economic and financial abuse
- Technology facilitated abuse
- > Threats and intimidation
- > Emotional or psychological abuse
- > Systems abuse
- > Coercive control
- > Sexual violence

2 Sexual violence

Sexual violence means sexual behaviour that occurs where consent is not freely given or obtained, is withdrawn or the individual is unable to consent due to their age or other factors. It can be physical or non-physical. It occurs any time an individual is forced, coerced, or manipulated into any sexual activity. It may occur within intimate relationships, friendships or with acquaintances and strangers..

3 Tell us you need our help

We won't know that you are experiencing domestic and family violence unless you tell us. Be as clear as you can about that and why you are contacting us.

You can reach out to us:

On 1300 4 KONEC

Via support ticket from your account

On email at help@konec.com.au

4 Tell us how to communicate safely with you

Every instance of domestic, family or sexual violence is different and only you know how to keep yourself safe.

Let us know how and when we can communicate with you in a way that doesn't put you at more risk. We'll only communicate with you via that method until you advise otherwise.

5 Konec's response to domestic, family or sexual violence

In our role as a mobile voice and data service provider, we will take relevant steps to support you if you are affected by domestic, family or sexual violence.

We'll listen for your concerns and how you wish to proceed but sometimes the options for us to help are limited. We'll tell you what we can do and let you choose how to proceed.

The support we provide may change over time but right now, this Policy's aim is to ensure your safety and where you rely on a mobile phone service, that you can maintain that service or an equivalent service.

We'll arrange for a senior team member to manage your case and we will never require you to:

- Volunteer the nature of the abuse
- Provide evidence or supporting material of the abuse unless we are legally required to obtain it or we believe it is necessary to protect your interests
- Contact or engage with the perpetrator or with their authorised representative.

Unless we are required to do so by law, or you give us permission, we will never disclose any information about your finances and or which can be used to identify or locate you, including your contact details. We'll only access your information in the ordinary course of business of managing your account.

6 Solutions we can offer

We will always try to find a solution which meets your needs as an affected person. Some of the solutions we may be able to offer to help you stay safe and/or stay connected include:

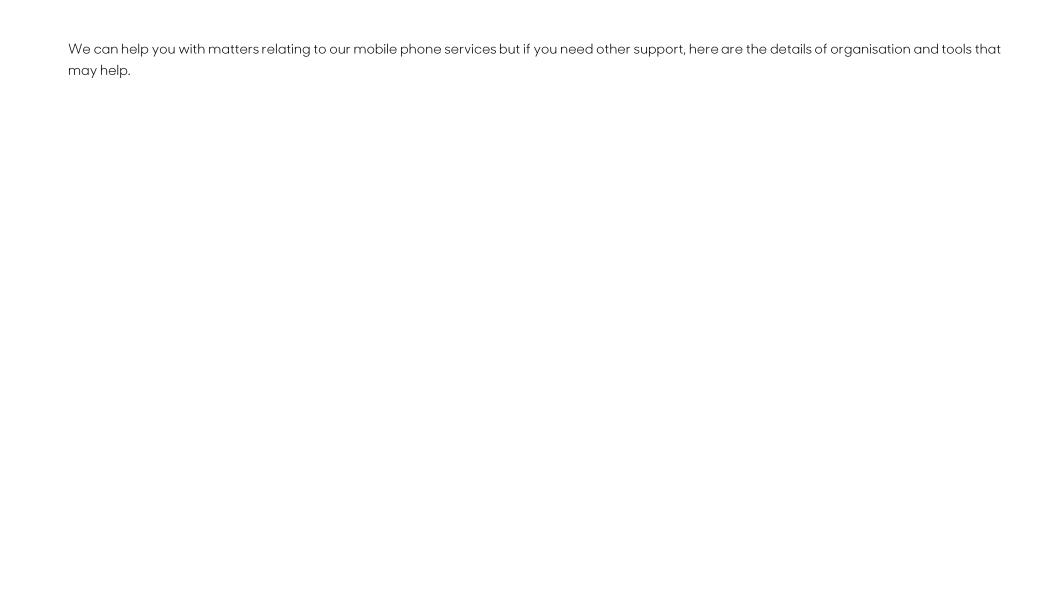

If you as an affected person is the account holder and user of a mobile service:

- Review and update contact and security information, including who has access to your account
- Change a mobile service number
- Move a mobile service number to a new account
- Change the owner of a mobile service
- Report harassing, threatening or unwanted calls
- Swap a mobile number and plan to a new SIM card
- Suspend or cancel a mobile service
- Restore a suspended or disconnected mobile service (where possible) or provide an equivalent service.
- Refrain from suspending, restricting or disconnecting a mobile service where personal safety is at risk.
- Assistance under our Financial Hardship Payment Assistance Policy (if qualified).

If you as an affected person is not the account holder but the user of a mobile service

- Offer a new mobile service on a new account
- Explore options to move a service into an independent account

We will arrange for our team member to receive focused training, but we are not a specialist domestic, family or sexual violence support service
